HON. JAMES H. RICE.

Indiana's Best Known and Most Popular Democrat,

Passes Quietly Away at Indianapolis—Full Account of His Life and Death.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 5.—Hon. James H. Rice, ex-auditor of the state of Indiana, died this morning at 5 o'clock, at the Grand hotel, in this city. He had been in poor health for a year and his death was the result of an attack of la grippe. Four weeks ago he was taken with a severe cold which brought on pneumonia and for the past two weeks his physicians have had little hope of his recovery. The la grippe almost took his life last spring and he has suffered from its terrible effects ever since. During the past two days he seemed somewhat better and was thought to be resting easier, but last night it could be readily seen that the end was not far off. He died apparently easy, without any pain.

No arrangements have yet been made for his funeral. His body will remain at the Grand hotel until tomorrow, when it will be removed to the home of his sister, Mrs. Ryan, on North Mississippi street.

He was a native of Indiana, born in New Albany in 1843. His career has been both eventful and successful. He was a soldier, a merchant, legislator, deputy state treasurer, a railway official, auditor of state for two terms, secretary of democratic state central committee for a number of years and during some of the most hotly contested campaigns ever witnessed in Indiana. Since retiring from the office of auditor of state in 1887 he has given his time to his various private and corporate investments, being engaged in a number of enterprises of importance in this state and elsewhere. He has always been a democrat in politics and had a national reputation as a leader of sagacity and influence. He has made his home for years at the Grand Hotel, Indianapolis, but of late years has been spending part of the time in New York city, where he was looked upon among financiers and politicians as one whose opinions on western matters were very valuable. He was frank and pleasant in his intercourse and in social life, had a wonderful memory for names and faces and was therefore well fitted for political leadership He was sagacious, both in business affairs and in politics; always self-possessed and master of himself in every emergency. His perfect knowledge of Indiana men and affairs was the result of personal experience, and not based on theory. It was this equipment of a widely extended acquaintance, united with a decisive force of character and an active temperament, that brought Mr. Rice to such a prominent position among men of affairs and influence.

LATER.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 5.—The remains of Mr. Rice will be taken to New Albany, Ind., Friday, where the interment will take place.

CARNEGIE'S NICE WORDS

LONDON, Oct. 5.—In Ayer today the corner stone of the memorial library, presented to the town by Andrew Carnegie, was laid with elaborate ceremonies. Almost the whole town took a holiday and, despite the hostility of the working people to the affair, an immense crowd gathered around the site of the building. The procession from the town hall to the foundation of the building was led by the city officials, Mr. Carnegie and Mrs. Carnegie. Mrs. Carnegie laid the corner-stone, and the mayor, after delivering a speech of effusive thanks, presented Mr. Carnegie with the freedom of the city. As Mr. Carnegie stepped forward to reply he was greeted with round after round of applause, so loud that a few groans and cries about Homestead were hardly audible. Mr. Carnegie spoke at considerable length. Part of his remarks were as follows: "I feel more strongly bound than ever to devote the remaining years of my life less to aims ending in self and more to the service of others, using my surplus wealth and spare time in the manner most likely to produce the greatest good to the masses of the people. From these masses comes the wealth which is trusted to the owner only as administrators." Mr. Carnegie received from the city a magnificently illustrated volume of "Views of the Land of Burns."

THE WHISKY TRUST

Has a Lively Competitor in Samuel Woolner.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—The "whisky trust," is not, if Samuel Woolner, of Peoria, can prevent it, going to have a monopoly of the spirit markets much longer. Mr. Woolner aspires to be a rival to the "trust," and his aspirations have taken such a form in the preparation of plans and specifications for the erection of a mammoth distillery at Peoria. "We will have the biggest distillery in the United States in operation in 120 days from now, if the weather does not delay the work," said Mr. Woolner. "Our house will have a daily capacity of 5,000 bushels of grain. We will also have facilities for feeding 5,000 head of cattle at the distillery. I have secured a new process for distilling spirits, which will enable us to manufacture much cheaper than the "trust," or any distillery independent of the trust. We can make whisky from one to two cents a gallon cheaper by the new process we have just devised than the trust can with the Takemine process. Our new company was incorporated under the laws of this state September 24. Otto Black, our superintendent has drawn up plans for warehouse, barns and the distillery proper to cover ten acres.

"MORE COMFORTABLE."

Such is the Report of Mrs. Harrison's Condition.

The Movements of President Harrison Dependent Upon the State of the Patient's Health.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Harrison passed a more comfortable night than on Tuesday, and this morning was feeling easier. She remains propped up in bed by pillows and has experienced the usual fluctuations attending her disease, feeling better or worse at times. The improvement or depression depends largely upon the state of the weather. She continues very weak, but her condition is not considered critical. Mr. Halford said this morning that the published accounts that the president would not attend either the Columbian exercises in New York or the exercises in Chicago incident to the formal opening of the world's fair were unauthorized and in a measure misleading. The president's movements day by day were dependent on the condition of Mrs. Harrison. If, when the time arrives, he feels that he can leave Mrs. Harrison, he will attend both celebrations; otherwise he will attend neither. It is not a matter that he can decide in advance.

ACTRESS LOTTA.

Her Condition so Serious She Cancels All Engagements.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The condition of Lotta, the actress, has become serious and her manager has notified the members of her company that they are at liberty to accept other engagements for the present season. All dates fixed for performances are now cancelled. The little woman's trouble is traced to a fall she suffered in Jersey City three years ago and the injuries she received in a runaway accident in Boston in November, 1889. The most encouraging news her physician can give is that with careful attention and absolute rest she may, a year hence, be herself again in a social but not in a professional way. The doctors think that owing to her spinal ailment she will never be able to dance again.

WILL CLOSE DOWN.

The Roosevelt Organ Factory to Quit Business.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The great Roosevelt Organ manufactory in this city, which employs several hundred men, is to be permanently closed. The reason given for this course by the managers of the concern is that the capital required for the manufacture of such expensive instruments as the Roosevelt organs could be more profitably invested. The number of large organs built by the Roosevelts reached 375, and among them were the grand instruments built for the Garden City cathedral and the the Chicago Auditorium.

ATTACKED IN THE ASYLUM.

Maggie Myers Almost Killed by an Insane Patient.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 5.—Maggie Myers, an attendant in the womans' department of the Central Hospital for the Insane, was set upon and severely stabbed four times last evening by a patient, named Lizzie Burke. Miss Myers was manacuring the nails of the patient when the latter seized the scissors, and before she could be controlled had inflicted the painful wounds. Miss Myers' wounds, it is thought, will not prove fatal, though they are serious.

SAILOR DISAPPEARED.

Captain Williams Leaves Home on Account of Embezzlement.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 5.—Captain John Williams, of the schooner A. P. Bliss, has mysteriously disappeared, leaving a letter in which he admits that he is an embezzler. The money embezzled was the receipts of the last trip. Captain Williams is one of the best known sailors on the lakes and was very popular. He was a resident of this city and for the last twelve years has worked for Mr. Pauly.

The Telegraphers.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 5.—The telegraphers of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad who belong to the Order of Railway Telegraphers, are on the tip toe of expectancy as to what action will be taken by the railroad authorities upon the submission of a new schedule of wages. This schedule was agreed upon at a recent meeting at Pittsburg. The schedule contains a request for higher salaries, shorter hours and a rule for promoting by merit and not by seniority.

Tutt Drowned.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 5.—Louis D. Tutt, one of the founders of the Elizabeth Athletic club and well known here, was drowned on Monday in Slim pond in the Adriondacks, together with his guide, Eugene French, while they were on a hunting expedition. The men lost their lives by the upsetting of their boat.

SEAL stealing has been troublesome and unprofitable in Behring Sea this season, owing to the improved ability of Uncle Sam to get vessels up into those waters.

REAL ESTATE.

The Buffalo Convention Settles Down to Work.

Judge Dexter Delivers an Interesting Lecture on the "Building and Loan Associations."

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 5.—The second day of the real estate convention opened with a hail storm which develped into light snow, melting as fast as it fell and making the streets and the atmosphere disagreeable. The delegates were early astir and the unpropitious weather did not appear to affect the boomers from the cities seeking the honor of the next convention. Detroit seems to be one of the leaders and its advocates point to the manner in which the Grand Army was entertained as an inducement to the real estate men to come there next year. Chicago is doing quiet but effective work and is urging the world's fair as an attraction. St. Louis and Louisville are also working industriously. Denver is booming its claims vigorously and the other claimants are hard at work in the same direction. As yet no prediction can be made as the result. This morning's sessions came to order shortly after 10 o'clock. The first business was the reading of a paper by Benjamin Hardwick, manager of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction rooms, New York, on "Real Estate Boards and Exchanges," followed by a discussion of the same, then the convention proceeded to the consideration of business pertaining to the association.

The committee on credentials presented their report showing nearly all the large cities of the country represented in the convention. A number of resolutions were offered, among them being one committing the association in favor of a twenty foot canal from the great lakes to the ocean and all were referred to the committee on resolutions. The president then announced the various committees and the convention took a recess until 2 p. m. When the afternoon session came to order Judge Seymour Dexter, of Elmira, New York, delivered an address on "Building and Loan Associations and their influence on real estate interest." The subject was one in which delegates take a deep interest and the address was listened to with close attention. Judge Dexter said:

"Air, sunshine and real estate are necessities of man's limitation. In the mystic kingdom beyond the natural, it may be possible for the spirit to survive without either, but while man 'dwells in mortal clay' it is certain he must have all three to live. It is not strange, therefore, that men sometimes reason that the real estate should be free as air and sunshine. It is the gift of God to all men, and he who monopolizes more of it than is necessary for his own use is a monopolist of the highest order, and when its value is enhanced by the closing in of population about his possession that he 'reaps a harvest that he has not sown," and gathers money into his coffers which belongs, in justice, to the social body which has brought to pass the depopulation. It is possible that in the future centuries when evolution of the social life has brought to pass conditions not yet reached, the dream of theorists may be wrought out in a practical plan and secure for the units of the social body beneficial results. It is certain, however, that at present the individual ownership of real estate is the only practical plan that can be adopted, but it is equally certain that such ownership, for the good of our people and the safety of our institutions, should be distributed among as large a number as possible. Many influences have conspired in the history of the country, up to the present generation, to make it pre-eminently a nation of home-owners. A nation of free men in the true sense of the word. While that condition shall continue no evil influences can arise of sufficient power to endanger the safety of our political institutions. If, however, the ratio of home owners to the total number of the population shall decrease, dangers that threaten the substance as well as the welfare of our political fabric will increase." Judge Dexter then reviewed the history of building and loan associations, and said: "No movement of its kind has ever attached such a marvelous growth and development as has marked its progress during the last six years. The development is no longer spasmodic but an organized movement in nearly every state and territory. Leagues in sixteen states have been formed and in April last a United States league was formed which will hold its first annual meeting in Chicago during the Columbian exposition and at the same time a world's congress will be held. A conservative estimate for the United States shows over 6,500 associations with assets approximating $550,000,000 and 1,500,-shareholders and we predict that on the first day of January, 1894, the accumulated assets of these associations in the whole country will exceed the capital invested in all the national banks of the United States." In contradistinction to the genuine building and loan association, Judge Dexter said another class had come in the existence known as the National Building and Loan association which he described as being conducted for the enrichment of their organizations. "Whenever, he said, so fine a field of operation presents itself to the scheming, crafty and dishonest, as the national building and loan association scheme, we may rest assured that they will enter it and pluck their victims until restrained by proper legal restrictions in the organization and conduct of this class of associations. As an institution for savings, no scheme has yet been devised and put into operation which combines security against a loss of the savings paid into its treasury, cheapness in management and good rates of interest, as the genuine building and loan association. These associations, as a means whereby a market may be created for suburban real estate, have no rival and their formation should be encouraged."

NO MARKED CHANGE.

Lord Tennyson, the Poet, is Very Weak—The Doors Closed Against Visitors.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A bulletin issued early this morning states that there is no marked change in the condition in Lord Tennyson since last evening. He was able to sleep some during the night, but is extremely weak and his condition remains critical. The foregoing bulletin is displayed upon the rustic gate which opens into the garden surrounding Tennyson's house. The gate is fastened shut by a rope in order to exclude the many persons who would otherwise intrude upon the family with inquiries as to the poet's condition. A basket is hung upon the gate in which cards and inquiries may be deposited. The district around the Tennyson residence is but thinly populated. At intervals are the residences of wealthy neighbors. The scenist Tyndale is one of those on the lofty heath resort of Hindhead. Sir Andrew Clarke, the noted physician, arrived at Allworth this morning for another consultation on the patient's case. He is accompanied by his wife. Telegrams and letters of inquiry as to the poet's condition are received in large numbers. Lord Tennyson's illness dates from September 27 when he became chilled while driving. A severe cold resulted which developed into influenza.

SINKING RAPIDLY.

The last bulletin at Haslemere states that Lord Tennyson is sinking rapidly and will not last through the day.

MONASTERY BURNED.

Fire Causes a Big Loss at Halifax.

HALIFAX, Oct. 5.—The magnificent monastery of the Trappist order, at Tracadie, Antigonish county, was burned yesterday. The fire originated in the bakery and the monks and their guests made great efforts to keep the fire from reaching the main building but without avail. The beautiful chapel was next to go and soon all of the splendid buildings were a pile of smouldering ruins. Everything was destroyed but the mills and barns. The The loss is $60,000, with no insurance. There were only two Trappist monasteries on the continent, one in Nova Scotia and the other in Kentucky. The monks are now quartered in the barns and out buildings.

LONG DISTANCE RIDERS

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—Count Starhemberg, one of the long distance riders from Vienna, arrived here at 7 o'clock this morning. He started Sunday and was only seventy-one hours and thirty-five minutes on the road. This is the best record yet made by any of the riders.

VIENNA, Oct. 5.—Six more of the long distance riders from Berlin arrived here this morning. Their records are all slower than those of the first to arrive yesterday. Duke Ernst Gunther was one of this morning's arrivals. His thoroughbred, Mayflower, became hopelessly lame some distance from the finishing point, and the duke completed the journey by rail.

Peace Has Come.

TUSKAHOMA, Ind. Ter., Oct. 5.—Everything is quiet here now. All parties have laid down their arms and agreed to keep the peace. The men arrested Sunday were released and those who desired to go home had their arms returned to them. Indian Agent Bennett says he will remain here with the soldiers for several weeks in order to prevent the possibility of further trouble.

In the Ruins.

ASHLAND, Wis., Oct. 5.—At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the body of Simon Vechlin, foreman of the timber crew, was taken from the ruins of Thursday's cave-in at the Norrie mine at Ironwood. There are five bodies yet buried in the debris, but no sign of any of them could be seen last night. The work of disentombment will continue until all have been found.

The Last of the Gang.

QUINCY, Ill., Oct. 5.—Arthur Denny, the last member of the noted and desperate Clark gang, who was at liberty, is in jail here. He was arrested last evening at a house of a friend here. This winds up the most desperate gang of outlaws that ever terrified this section.

Struck by a Train.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—A horse car driven by John Moran attempted to cross the track at Orange, N. J., last night, and was struck by the fast express on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western. Moran was killed and two passengers, Mrs. Charles Hunt and Mrs. Benedict, were seriously if not fatally injured.

Mrs. C. B. Immell, Mrs. H. S. Wells, Mrs. B. H. Lesh, Mrs. Mamie Daub and Miss Minnie Bussard, milliners of Huntington, were in the city yesterday.

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL.

The Supreme Law-Making Body in Session.

The Opening Services Attended by Twelve Hundred Persons—The Program Outlined.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 5.—The supreme law-making body of the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States, the general convention of 1892, assembled at Emanuel church at 10:30 o'clock this morning and began its three weeks' session, a session that will be pre-eminently marked by earnest and brilliant debate, important legislation and changes in the organic law of the church which may have their effect for ages to come.

The scene at the church was impressive as the venerable bishops, clergymen and laymen marched up the aisles to their respective seats. The bishops, of whom there were sixty-three present, occupied seats upon a platform which had been erected in front of the altar. The delegates were seated in the body of the church. They numbered over 400.

Admission to the church for the celebration of Holy Communion, the only feature of this morning's gathering, was by ticket. Twelve hundred were issued and as many more applications were necessarily refused. Nearly every seat was occupied. The services were conducted by Bishop Williams, of Connecticut, the senior bishop of the church. He was assisted by Bishops Potter, of New York; Littlejohn, of Long Island; Doan, of Alabama; Dudley, of Kentucky, and others. The celebrants and all the other bishops were in vestments. The sermon was preached by the Rev. R. H. Wilmer, bishop of Alabama. The business session of the convention will begin at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

DIED FROM THE WOUND

About a month ago Chas. Croft, a young man residing at No. 150 Horace street, accidentally shot himself in the abdomen while cleaning a small target rifle. Croft was a brakeman employed by the Pennsylvania railway at one time. An accident rendered him a paraletic. He was given a position in Trainmaster Walton's office as caller, but his wound became worse a few days ago and caused his death this morning at the hour of 5:15. The deceased was a young man well known and respected. His remains were taken in charge by Undertaker Peltier and will be shipped to Alliance, Pa., for interment, Mr. Croft having formerly resided in that city. His mother will accompany the remains. The deceased was aged about twenty-three years. A post mortem examination is being held this afternoon by Drs. Stemen and Ogle.

WEST FAVORS CLEVELAND.

The National Campaign Outlook as Viewed by Rev. Sam Small.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 5.—Rev. Sam Small, who has just returned home from the west to devote his time to the political campaign here, said this morning concerning the political outlook in the west: "It is the dullest presidential campaign on record. The people cannot be moved to any sort of decent enthusiasm. They say frankly that they know both Harrison and Cleveland thoroughly, that there is no substantial difference between the parties; that the country is scarcely liable to go to the devil under the supremacy of either party, and that it matters but little to the plain people which of the two succeeds. Nobody, other than the professional politicians, seemed to be interested much."

"How is the general drift of sentiment?" Mr. Small was asked.

"I should say that Cleveland has the advantage in the easily felt atmospheric temper. Two men out of every three you talk with will almost invariably admit that the chances are with Cleveland. Indeed; there is a well defined acceptance of the proposition that if Cleveland does not get an electoral college majority the election will be taken into the house of representatives and he will be elected there. All the reports by political observers and by commercial travelers to the far west agree that Weaver will carry enough of them to defeat a choice by the electoral college."

"Which states are accredited to Weaver?"

"Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Nevada, Wyoming, the two Dakotas and Minnesotta. Possibly there may be, by reason of work yet to be done, a change in some of those states, but that is a change the democrats do not desire."

THE POTTER'S FIELD.

The Remains of Henry Otten Buried There.

A funeral was held from the undertaking office of Messrs. Schone & Wellman this morning. There were no services and a minister of the gospel was not even present. The hearse merely went to the door and took the remains of Henry Otten, the man who was found dead in Baker's saw mill, Monday morning, to the potter's field of the Catholic cemetery. His life had been a failure and was wasted.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Christian church will have their general monthly business meeting Thursday, October 6. Every lady of said church and society is earnestly requested to be present as there is business to come before the meeting at that time of great importance.

SPENCER IS INSANE.

The Ex-Marshal of South Wayne is So Adjudged

By a Commission in Lunacy and Will Be Sent to Richmond—News in the Courts.

This morning, at the county jail, Justices James Wilkinson and Charles Hayes, with Doctors Metcalf and Sweringen met to examine into the mental condition of Cyrus Spencer, the ex-marshal of South Wayne, whose insane actions were noted in THE SENTINEL of Monday.

Yesterday he made five attempts to take his own life. During the forenoon he took the sash cords out of the window of his cell and deftly made a hangman's knot, fastened one end to a hook and put the loop around his neck ready to swing off and dangle in the air. He was intercepted and the room was cleared of all articles that might look tempting to a suicidally inclined person.

Spencer was discovered a little later with his suspenders fixed about his neck looking for a peg or projection on which to hang himself. The suspenders were taken away from the would-be suicide and he was watched a few moments. His next move was to tear his muslin shirt into shreds and twist a rope from the strips. The bits of cloth were taken away from Spencer, and a few moments later he made a plunge at his bed, and, seizing the blanket, tore off a long strip from the edge of the strong goods and hastily fastened the improvised rope around his neck. It required a severe struggle to get the blanket and strips away from the man.

At the dinner table he concealed a knife and a little later attempted to cut his throat with it, but was prevented from so doing by the watchfulness of Turnkey Lindsley.

This morning the commission met and examined into his mental condition, some twenty witnesses testifying and the verdict arrived at was that Spencer was insane. He will be taken to Richmond for treatment.

About twenty years ago Mr. Spencer was hit on the head, while he was residing in Illinois, with a blacksmith hammer. The wound did not annoy him much for some years, but about four months ago it was found necessary, by Fort Wayne physicians, to operate on his head by opening the skull to relieve him of recurring spasms that came nearer together.

Now his ailment has induced hallucinations. His case is a sad one and much sympathy is expressed for his family.

COURT NEWS.

Officer Limecooley arrested a drunk this morning.

There were three drunks in police court this morning. All of them were sent to jail.

Constable Schlaudroff went to Hoagland this afternoon to arrest Levi Bart for provoke on a warrant sworn out by Fred Reininger. The two men are prominent farmers and have had trouble about the burning of a barn. The case is before Justice Wilkinson.

Gottlieb Noble is on trial before Justice France, charged with having committed an assault and battery upon Frank Hake. A warrant was also sworn out against him for provoke. The two are neighbors and quarreled about a strip of ground between their places.

John H. Cody has commenced garnishee proceedings against Charles O. Thompson.

William Wilson and Orvil Adams, the lads arrested on the charge of stealing George McAllister's horse, were bound over to the jail in the sum of $200. Stephens, who was arrested for complicity in the theft, was released.

Judge O'Rourke, in the circuit court, granted Judson Hiser a divorce from Phoebe Hiser.

Walter C. Dederick and Jessie Smith, Wm. Aumann and Clara Edsall, Chas. G. Guild and Clara F. Humphrey, John W. Gohrig and Emma Wetter, have been licensed to wed.

The American Horse-Thief Detective association is holding an annual convention at Anderson. James A. Mount, of Shannondale, is president, D. B. Hostetter, of Roachdale, secretary, and John S. Gray, of Waynetown, Ohio, general organizer. Ohio, Illinois and Indiana are represented by delegates, and reports show the organization is rapidly extending its scope of operations. The organization is pretty general in northern and central Indiana, and it has secured a firm footing in Edgar, Cook and Vermillion counties, Illinois, and in Butler, Darke and Preble counties, Ohio.

A MERRY WEDDING.

The Marriage of Miss Anna Rentschler and Christ Eiserlo.

Last evening at 8 o'clock in the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. David Rentschler, 48 Wall street, occurred the marriage of their estimable daughter, Miss Anna, to Mr. Christ Eiserlo, of Chicago, where he is employed in the electrical department of the world's fair buildings. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. A. Northrop, according to the ritual of his church, in the presence of the immediate friends of the family, and which includes a very large circle, some of whom were from Logansport. After the usual congratulations an elegant supper was served under the careful management of the sisters of the bride, Misses Lottie and Carrie Rentschler, assisted by Miss Rosa Long, of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Eiserlo will leave for the "Windy City," their future home, tomorrow morning, accompanied by the well-wishes and congratulations of a legion of friends.

BLOODY ENCOUNTER.

The Dalton Gang, Foiled in a Bank Robbery, Shoot Six Citizens of Coffeyville.

PARSONS, Kas., Oct. 5.—This morning, shortly after the First National bank, of Coffeyville, Kas., opened its doors, five mounted men drew up before the bank and three of them entered and, with drawn revolvers, ordered the cashier to hand over the money in the safe and vault. The cashier drew a revolver and fired at the robbers. Several citizens were attracted by the unusual sight of five mounted men in front of the bank and when the sound of the revolver shot was heard they rushed into the bank and a general fusilade followed. The robbers retreated from the bank and attempted to gain their horses, at the same time firing their revolvers at the citizens who were attempting to kill or capture them. In the fight six citizens are reported killed and four of the robbers captured. Two of the latter are said to be mortally wounded. They are members of the famous Dalton gang.

LATER REPORT.

Later reports states that four of the Dalton gang were killed and one fatally wounded. Three citizens were also killed, and two fatally and one seriously wounded. The names of the robbers killed and wounded are: Bob and Grant Dalton, Tom Heddy, and an unknown man. Emmet B. Dalton is fatally wounded, with a bullet in his right lung. The names of the citizens killed are: City Marshal C. T. Connelly, Charles Brown and George Cubine. Cashier T. G. Ayer, of the First National bank, Lucas Baldwin, T. Reynolds, and Alfred Dietz are seriously wounded. It appears that the robbers entered the village at 9:30 o'clock this morning and separated, two of them going to Condon's bank and four going to the First National bank. At Condon's bank the men were told by the cashier that the safe was regulated by a time lock and could not be opened until 10 o'clock. They covered him with Winchesters and told him they would wait. In the meantime the other quartet went to the First bank and ordered Cashier Ayer to hand over the money in the vault. At first he refused and attempted to reach his revolver. One of the gang fired a shot at him. He then handed over what money was in the safe and after placing it in a bag the gang left and tried to rejoin their confederates. The alarm had been given, and citizens quickly gathered and attempted to capture the robbers, who were at once recognized as members of the Dalton gang of outlaws. The robbers fired at the crowd of citizens and the shots were returned with precision and effect. The fighting became general and bullets flew thick and fast. When the smoke of the battle cleared away four of the Dalton gang were lying dead on the ground and three citizens were also killed. Two of the robbers were wounded and three citizens had received serious bullet wounds. One of the gang succeeded in escaping, but a mounted posse is in pursuit and it is certain that he will be captured and in all probability will dangle from the end of a hastily improvised noose. The greatest excitement exists and it may be that the wounded members of the gang will also be lynched.

A HIGH POLE

A Great Crowd of Laboring People and Others in Attendance—Speeches by S. M. Foster and Others.

Forty-five members of the Hendricks club and many members of the Jeffersonian club gathered in front of the Wayne hotel last evening, and headed by the Fort Wayne City band, started on a march to the Tenth ward pole raising.

The line of march was down Calhoun street and through the republican procession, which was forming in front of the Aveline. The band played a stirring air and the ringing commands of Captain Meyers were responded to by the club as they put the best foot forward and looked straight ahead, as much as to say: "We are the people." The club was in uniform and elicited much comment by their fine appearance.

Arriving at the Tenth ward a great crowd had gathered and a pole at least 150 feet high was dropped into place amid the music of the band and shouts of the crowd. No platform had been put up for the speaking and a spring wagon was brought out into the street. Notwithstanding, there was an enthusiastic meeting. Speeches were made by S. M. Foster, W. H. Shambaugh, E. V. Emrick and Judge Hench. The boys marched through the southern part of the city to Calhoun and up Calhoun home.

No wonder children love "Fritz in Ireland." The pictured scenes are all they have dreamed or heard of, fairyland, and when the whole—touched into life by song and music—needs but the fairy queen, behold! she comes, far more sweet and clever than story or dream e'er pictured—and "Fritz" has brought her.

WORK OF FIENDS.

They Try to Cremate the Hughes Family—C. S. Bash Robbed and His Barn Burned—The Yarnelle Property Damaged.

There was a dastardly attempt at arson and robbery on West Wayne street this morning at 3 o'clock.

At that hour the family of Joseph Hughes, of the Mayflower mills, who resides at No. 284 West Wayne street, were awakened by the smell of smoke and the crackling sound of flames. Hasty investigation disclosed the fact that a dastardly attempt had been made by fire bugs to cremate the whole family, some seven or eight in number. A brisk fire was burning in one of the lower stairways and a blaze had also been started in the pantry. Vigorous efforts were made and the family succeeded in getting control of the fire.

About the same time Charles S. Bash, president of the Mayflower mills, and who lives the first house east of the Hughes residence was aroused by sounds in the lower part of his residence. He hastened down stairs and found that burglars had entered the west down stairs window and had gone through the lower rooms, ransacking every drawer and turning things upside down generally.

While attempting to make a hasty inventory of the loss, Mr. Bash discovered that his barn was in flames. He hastily dressed and ran out, to find the flames spreading rapidly. He entered the barn at the risk of his life, and released a valuable cow which was tied up in the burning building. Mr. Bash was in his bare feet, and while loosening his cow, stepped on the sharp point of a rusty nail, inflicting a painful injury.

The family of E. F. Yarnelle, who live at No. 276, a few doors from Mr. Bash, were aroused by the confusion and Mr. Yarnelle at once telephoned the fire department. The department responded in a remarkably short space of time, probably nine minutes, and in an instant had two streams of water playing on the burning barn. The building was too far gone, however, to save, and the firemen turned their attention to the Yarnelle residence, which was beginning to scorch from the heat of the burning barn. In a short time the barn was a heap of ruins, and the frightened families gathered together and congratulated themselves that no one was killed.

The only one who saw any traces of the burglars and fire-bugs, and there must have been four or five of them, was Mrs. Bash, who saw one of the men standing near the window. The fellow hastily took to his heels. He was tall, dark, and of a heavy build.

Mr. Bash stated that the burglars had not carried off anything of value, and that the loss to his barn would not exceed $500 or $600. The Yarnelle residence was damaged to the extent of probably $50.

The fiendish effort to cremate the whole family of Joseph Hughes, shows the perpetrators to be villains of the worst stripe. Had the fire in their residence gotten under full headway, their escape would have been cut off except from the upper windows, which are some distance from the ground.

The police department is making every effort to run down the burglars. They attribute the depredation to local talent.

NOTES.

Mr. Bash carried insurance on his barn and his loss will be of little consequence.

Mr. Bash was out riding this morning and had his foot well bundled up. It was very painful.

The roof of Joseph Hughes residence was damaged to the extent of $15. At one time the residence was seriously threatened.

A servant in the Hughes residence was the first to discover the flames, which were started in the pantry and on the cellar stairway at the same time. Rags, saturated with coal oil, were used.

Mrs. McCormick, of No. 99 East Jefferson street, was badly scared last evening by burglars. The kitchen was entered while Mrs. McCormick was in the front part of the house, but the burglar took fright, slammed the door and ran.

Dr. M. F. Porter, of West Wayne street, was another victim. He was awakened last night by unusual sounds at a rear window of his residence. Investigation revealed the fact that a burglar was endeavoring to gain an entrance to his house and just as the doctor appeared on the scene the thief succeeded in breaking the window stops, and a moment later would have been in the room. Doctor Porter picked up a heavy cane and started for the back yard, intending to capture and turn the burglar over to the police, but the fellow heard the front door open as the doctor went out and took to his heels. The man was standing in the shadow of the surrounding buildings and Dr. Porter could not get a full view of his face. Neither can he give an accurate description of the clothing worn by the thief nor his general appearance. Arrest is highly improbable.

Miss Sherin so favorably known to the ladies of Fort Wayne when in business here has opened a fashionable dressmaking establishment at No. 53 Twenty-sixth street near Prairie avenue, Chicago, where she will be pleased to see her former patrons when in the city.

I have a few words to say regarding the CUTICURA REMEDIES. They have cured me in four weeks' time from a Skin and Blood Disease which I have had for over three years. At certain times, my skin would be very sore, and always kept cracking and peeling off in white scales. In cold weather my face was one mass of scales. When in the cold air the pain was intense; it would almost bring tears to my eyes, and my blood also being in a poor condition, with a loss of hair. I have tried every known remedy that was recommended to me, but it was of no use, and gave me very little benefit. So, hearing of your CUTICURA REMEDIES, I concluded to give them a trial. The first application gave almost instant relief. In a few weeks' time I found myself cured, and I am thankful for what they have done for me. Your CUTICURA REMEDIES are a blessing to those who may have the opportunity to use them. I can recommend them to any one.

THE killing frosts are here.

JUDGE GRESHAM'S flop to Cleveland is the most sensational incident thus far of this rather dull campaign.

FLORIDA is in the democratic column. The entire democratic ticket was elected yesterday by a majority of 20,000.

A POLL of Indiana shows it to be democratic over and above the combined strength of all republican, populist and prohibition opposition. So says the Chicago Herald, and it is disposed to take a cold, conservative look at all matters of public interest.

GEN. STEVENSON rubbed a solemn truth into his hearers when, in his speech at Woodsdale on Saturday, he declared that the only effect of a protective tariff on wages was to decrease the purchasing power of every dollar earned by the the working people.

POLITICS were booming in Fort Wayne last night. Both the democratic and republican parties held political meetings and had processions parading the streets. The campaign is on, and from this time until the election the leaders of the political parties will do all they can to stir up an enthusiasm.

THE SENTINEL is sorry to learn of the death of Hon. James H. Rice, which occurred this morning at Indianapolis. Mr. Rice was one of the most prominent democrats of the state, and had a host of friends. We doubt if there was a man in the state more widely known or more justly popular than Mr. Rice.

GEN. GEO. A. SHERIDAN, one of the most popular platform orators in the country, delivered a speech in the Princess rink last night. It was the labored effort of a paid attorney, and while his fluency of speech was pleasing to the audience his attempt to prove that the McKinley bill reduced the price of living was a failure. All one has to do to prove that this is false is to ask any lady who is keeping house whether the household expenses are any cheaper today than they were two years ago. Some may say that sugar is cheaper, but it must be remembered that sugar was not made cheaper by adding on a tariff but by taking it off.

Campaign Methods Changing.

"The people of the country have simply grown weary of politics." This was what Chairman Carter, of the republican national committee, said the other day in Washington, in explanation of the apparent lack of interest upon all sides in the present campaign. "You will see about as lively a campaign at the wind up as you have ever seen," continued Chairman Carter, "but the life of the brisk part of the campaign will be very short—a couple of weeks long. I predict that in future presidential campaigns will grow shorter and shorter till they will be of but a few weeks' duration, and there will be apparently little interest shown in them. The real interest is none the less now from what it ever has been, but the voters have come to look upon and regard campaigns differently from the way they did years ago. They don't get excited. We reach voters now by reasoning with them. There is no appeal to prejudice upon either side. The race, sectional and war issues are about over. Men vote, when they vote from conviction only, after studying the questions involved.

"The days of brass bands, and torchlights, and barbecues, and flashy uniforms are over. Voters read now, and they listen to public speakers. They make up their minds in the quietude of their homes. It is a question of principles, of patriotism. The best interests of the country are hazarded in a presidential campaign.

"About the only thing necessary in a campaign nowadays," said the chairman, "is to explain the issues that divide the two parties. The voter can make up his mind. I have frequently thought to myself that if we could, in our conventions, adopt platforms which would, beyond dispute, mark out the differences between the positions of the various parties, there would be no use to have organizations further than to get our positions before the voters. I wish each party could name a small committee, at its national convention, to meet jointly and come to an understanding as to the dividing lines. We spend most of our time disputing over the positions we assume on various issues. If the public mind could be sure as to where the parties stood there would be no trouble about results without so much organization."

The Greatest "Sluggers."

In reviewing the recent fistic controversy between Messrs. Corbett and Sullivan, New York Life has probably hit upon the real cause of the downfall of the champion "slugger" of his day in attributing his defeat to John Barleycorn and Edacious Time, a twain who may be fitly termed the greatest "sluggers" known to mankind. In speaking of the great fight Life says:

"Not even the cholera scare availed to divert contemporary interest from the trial of conclusions between Messrs. Corbett and Sullivan. So pronounced has been the latter gentleman's physical superiority over other specimens of his race, that the true aim of this last experiment, as of several of its predecessors, was not so much to ascertain whether Mr. Corbett was as good a man as Mr. Sullivan, as in what measure Mr. Sullivan fell short of being as good a man as he had been. The true opponents of the Boston man have been John Barleycorn and Edacious Time, and the main use of Mr. Corbett has been as a convenient measure to determine the extent of the ravages of these sappers of human strength. Inasmuch as all humanity is subject to the corrosion of one of them, and an important proportion of it in a greater or less degree to the inroads of the other, the test at New Orleans possessed an exceptional claim on public attention. It is hoped that its result will not encourage any citizen to accumulate premature crow's-feet and wrinkles, or to consume a drop more alcohol than seems indispensable to his personal comfort."

No World's Fair Tower.

It is reported to be a settled fact that no high tower will be built at the world's fair. The last of the tower schemes has collapsed. Engineer George S. Morison, who has claimed all the time that he would put up a tower higher than Eiffel's, has sent a letter to the grounds and buildings committee abandoning his project. The only towers on the grounds will be a number of small observatories about three hundred feet high. They will be equipped with restaurants and booths. A leading architect has made artistic plans for them. The collapse of the tower project is no surprise to those familiar with the sentiment of the board of directors on that question. The board has been against such freak attractions from the start, but this did not dissuade enthusiasts from going ahead and making plans for all kinds of architectural nightmares. In their efforts to outdo Eiffel these enthusiasts sent in a number of remarkable designs. The tower of Babel would have been a very tame structure in contrast with most of the designs offered. One man sent plans for a shaft twenty-eight hundred feet high, with a broad roof garden and promenade about fifteen hundred feet above ground. Most of the proposed towers, however, were about eleven hundred feet high, and nearly all of them were mechanical absurdities.

THE frightful facility with which laws can be enacted in this country is a potent agency in bringing them into disrepute. Hundreds of statutes are practically dead letters, outgrown by public opinion, and attempted enforcement would be popularly interpreted as persecution. Venal, incompetent and conceited legislatures, largely composed of members destitute of the first qualifications of statesmanship, often make the law-making power almost farcical. They put some things upon the statute books that would disgrace the Russian czar. The people have yet to realize, says the Troy Times, that a legislature no less than a satrap can be odiously tyrannical.

SINCE work began a year ago on the world's fair buildings 10 men have lost their lives by accident and 3,300 men have been either permanently or temporarily disabled by accident or illness in the service of the exposition. At the present time the injuries average 20 per day among a working force of 10,300 employes of all kinds. It is claimed by the medical and surgical staff of the exposition that the casualties during the exposition will far exceed—even double—the number killed and injured during the construction period.

THOSE persons who know how to make cherry bounce are now scouring the country for ripe wild cherries. When properly made cherry bounce is an admirable cordial to serve with coffee. It is rich in color, distinctive and pleasant in flavor. A small liquor glass of cherry bounce, with one cherry floating in the liquid, is as beautiful to the eye as the famous cordials of Europe, and it is as insinuating a tempter as any liquid known.

IT is reported that a syndicate of American capitalists is about to buy Mount Popocatepetl in order to mine its sulphur and convert into cold cash its ice-covered summit. The cholera scare has made a largely increased demand for sulphur, and the ice could, of course, be readily landed in the markets of Mexico.

JUDGE TAYLOR'S SPEECH

"The Highest Good Is to Work Harder and Get Less."

"Ornament is but the guiled shore
To a most dangerous sea."
"What damned error but some sober brow
Will bless it and approve it with a text,
Hiding the grossness with fair
ornament."

Once more we have had the pleasure of having the tariff question discussed by our distinguished fellow citizen, whose ability we all alike acknowledge, admire and rejoice in. It is but right to say that no more interesting address upon the great issue of this campaign will probably be heard here. If the argument is not convincing, the fault does not lie with the author, but is to be found in the cause which he defends. An absolutely indefensible position cannot be made strong by any exertion of genius in the defender.

The speaker of Saturday night quotes a maxim of the political economists "that man always seeks to gratify his desires with the least possible exertion." "This maxim," he says, "when applied to international commerce leads directly to free trade." "But," he adds, "no political economist has even justified a resort to the maxim by establishing the further proposition 'that it is best for mankind that every man shall gratify his desires with the least possible exertion.' On the contrary, the highest good," he says, "is to make the greatest exertion;" or, "the highest good of man is to be found in the largest victory over the forces of nature."

The maxim above quoted means no more than that it is the instinct of man to seek for his labor the largest possible return in those products that are necessary, useful or agreeable to him; that he does not willingly work two days for that he can secure by one day's effort. So natural and so right does this instinct seem that political economists and all other men may well be pardoned for assuming it as an axiom. The sole object of industrial effort is the gratification of desires. The sole object of exchange is the mutual advantage of the parties to it, and no exchange would ever occur unless both parties were profited by it. The hatter would not exchange services with the shoemaker, nor the tailor with the blacksmith, unless each, by applying his labor to his own particular trade, could secure more of the other's product than if he applied his labor to the trade of the other. The principle is the same whether the parties to the exchange are neighbors or inhabitants of different countries. If A. can make cotton cloth enough in a day to buy five dollars worth of French silk while he can make only three dollars worth of silk in the same time he will naturally make the cotton cloth and exchange it for silk. Any artificial obstruction to this exchange diminishes the power of A. to create wealth. This simple principle controls all exchanges, whether between inhabitants of the same country or of foreign countries. So absolutely overwhelming are the reasons in favor of free exchange, if it is admitted that the highest possible satisfaction of man's desire for what is useful, necessary or agreeable to him, is the highest industrial good, that we are not surprised that the speaker felt compelled to deny the rightness of this universal instinct of mankind. But unless the acquisition of wealth, i. e., the highest possible satisfaction of man's desire for those products of man's effort which are necessary, useful or agreeable to him, is the highest industrial good there is no science of political economy, and all the results of the patient observation and thought of some of the greatest minds of the century, from Adam Smith to our own day, are tossed into the waste basket as so much refuse.

"What is the highest good of man" was a theme much discussed by the ancient philosophers. The pleasant garden of Epicurus and the Porch of Zeno rang with the debate. One said the highest good was pleasure; another, virtue. But let Epicurus define pleasure and Zeno virtue, and it is clear that there is no difference between them.

What does our speaker mean by "highest good?" If he means something different from highest industrial good, i. e. the largest possible return in product for expended effort, he removes the discussion from the pale of science, and is, of course, free to soar in the realms of speculation. Does he mean that the "highest good" is "exertion," without reference to rewards? And by implication, that the purpose of a protective tariff is to lessen the reward of man's effort for the gratification of his desires? If so, he concedes all that the most radical free trader ever claimed; and this concession is both the reason and the outcome of his position. He certainly has the right to assume this position. But the heavy task remains to convince the people of Indiana that their "highest good" consists in expending two days' labor for that which they could secure by one day's effort.

The South Sea islander, says the speaker, plucks his bread from a tree, while the New Englander bakes his from flour ground from grain grown on soil subjugated by labor and skill, and he asks in apparent triumph, who eats the better bread, and which process of bread making develops the better race of men? If our speaker's philosophy is sound, if the greatest exertion is the highest good, why does not the New Englander seek out the bleakest of his hills, and, by there subduing nature with unrequited toil, wrest from her reluctant grasp a scanty living? The shrewd Yankee does no such thing. He puts his labor where it will do the most good and exchanges his product for the cheapest flour in the world, flour ground from grain grown in the fertile prairies of the west. The New England states produced in 1880 less than a half bushel of wheat for each of her inhabitants. And if the poor South Sea islander wants to eat New England bread, and so annihilate his race inferiority should he lay a heavy import duty on American wheat and compel himself to work two days for as much of that wonderful wheat as he could otherwise get for one day's work? Or should he imitate the New Englander's policy as well as eat his bread?

So prominent was the place given to machinery and inventions in the address that one is almost led to believe that the speaker regards the invention of machinery as the "highest good." In fact, he bases his whole argument for protection on the claim that a protective policy better "secures to the people of the United States the better opportunity and the stronger incentives to pursue with ardor those studies, arts and occupations which lead to the subjugation of the forces of nature to the service of man."

He speaks in terms of the highest admiration of our great army of engineers, mechanics, electricians, etc. In this admiration we all share; but there is not one word in the address to show any necessary or probable connection between a protective tariff and these objects of our admiration. Certainly no one will claim that a protective tariff creates inventive genius. The most that could be claimed would be that a protective tariff furnishes inventive genius its opportunity. Such a contention is a pure assumption. The presumption and the facts are all against it. The patent law secured to inventors a reward great enough to stimulate their highest efforts. The cotton gin (1793), Perkins' nail machine (1790), which could turn out 200,000 nails daily, Fulton's steamboat (1807), Morse's telegraph (1844), McCormick's reaper and mower, Ericsson's screw propeller, Hoe's steam printing press, Howe's sewing machine, the steam fire engine, the daguerreotype and photograph, all invented between 1820 and 1846, with a hundred other great inventions that might be named, show that a war tariff is not necessary for the healthy activity of inventive genius. The great industrial exhibition in New York in 1853 proved beyond all question that in that period of low tariff "the Americans had no equals in practical inventions and in the excellence and variety of their labor-saving machinery."

How the protective tariff created the steam engine industry and the electrical engineering industry may well form the theme of another address. How a tax on wool, coal and iron ore stimulate inventive genius ought also to receive attention. How England is to rob us of our electrical industry, based as it is on American patents, should be explained. The quiet assumption of the point at issue and the equally quiet ignoring of the hundred years' protection already accorded to American industries are two of the most striking features of the address. Interesting it is. Disappointing to protectionists it must be. It is cold comfort to be told that the "highest good" of man consists in working harder for a lessening reward. It is strange doctrine that Major McKinley and a few selfishly interested manufacturers have the wisdom to determine what is the "highest good of man" and the right to impose their inspired philosophy upon their fellow men.

LOW TARIFF.

DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS LOADED.

A New and Terrible Illustration of the Old Slang Phrase.

A Louisville junk dealer recently bought a miscellaneous lot of old iron from the state arsenal at Frankfort, Ky. It included a good many old cannon balls and loaded bombshells, and the junk man hired H. L. Sanders and James Force to unload the shells.

They took the shells into the country and piling them up in a tent went to work.

One day a shell exploded in their hands. A laborer ran to the tent, which had fallen in and taken fire, and found the two men shattered corpses. The laborer dragged the dismembered bodies from the flames and beat a hasty retreat.

He was none too soon. In three minutes the fire had communicated with a stack of shells, and off they went with the thunder of a full battery of forty-pounders. This was followed at short intervals by the explosion of single shells that were lying about. It all sounded like the cannonade of armies in battle, and shook the capitol over the hills that encircled it.

Force's house, a short distance from the explosion, was entirely dismantled, pieces of shell and slugs tearing through it in every direction. A farm house a mile distant had every window glass shattered and its occupants badly frightened. A shell was picked up on the turnpike a quarter of a mile from the explosion.

Cost of the Revolution.

The cost of the American revolution can, of course, only be estimated, since no authentic data are available for an exact statement. According to the best information obtainable, its cost to the American colonies was about $135,000,000, and to England the expense of the war exceeded $500,000,000 besides the loss of 50,000 soldiers and the American colonies.

Distances in the Universe.

A cannon ball fired from a piece of modern ordnance would reach the moon (240,000 miles distant) in twelve days. Mars in 6¼ years, Jupiter in 54 years, Saturn in 108 years, Neptune in 300 years and Alpha Centauri, the nearest fixed star, in 3,000,000 years.

A Restitution.

At Colmar a lawyer bequeathed the sum of one hundred thousand francs to the mad-house in that locality. "I earned this money," said he in his will, "from those who spend their life-time in lawsuits. This legacy is only a restitution."

A cow's hide produces nearly twice the amount of leather that a horse does.

WHAT AILED THE COUNTRY

Result of a Schoolmaster's Observations While Following His Vocation.

One night at a little mountain town in Kentucky I was seated on the front porch of the tavern waiting for bed time to come along, when a tall, strapping fellow lounged through the office and dropped into a chair beside me. "Stranger in these parts?" he said inquiringly. "A little somewhat so," I replied, glad of a chance to talk to somebody; "though I've been over a section of it in the last month." "What do you think of it?" "Well, it might be worse." "Yes, I s'pose so, but I've studied up some and don't see exactly how." "Oh, it isn't all bad," I said encouragingly. "I reckon not," he replied, in a half-hearted way: "I never heard anybody say anything against the moral character of our mountains; our trees would stand well in any community; the Cumberland river is clean and our cows are as a rule, peaceable and well disposed."

The man's answer surprised me not a little. I had not heard any native talk quite as he did and I was interested. "Do you belong here?" I inquired. "Yes; never lived anywhere else." "What business are you in?" "I'm a school teacher." "Oh, you teach the young idea how to shoot do you?" "Not much," he replied with emphasis: "it's born right in 'em, and that's what ails the whole country." Probably he knew what he was talking about.

A SINGLE CROP.

Trees That Bear Fruit But Once During a Long Life.

The sago palm tree bears but one crop of fruit. Its load of nuts is its first and final effort in the way of fruit bearing. The nuts become ripe and are strewn in thousands around the tree until the great stem stands up by itself, empty and bare. The branches turn brown and drop one by one to the ground. Inside the trunk the work of decay is going on until what at one time was a mass of white sago and pith becomes nothing but a collection of rotten brown fibers. One day the trade wind blows more strongly than usual and the leafless column of the trunk falls with a crash, destroying in its fall many of the young palms that are already springing from the nuts scattered some months before. The talipot, or Palmyra palm, a native of Ceylon, is another tree which flowers and bears fruit but once. When about eighty years old, which is when it has attained its full growth, the flower spike bursts from its envelope with a loud report. In the course of fifteen or twenty months it showers down an abundance of nuts, and this effort to produce a numerous succession proves fatal to the parent. The fruit is round and very hard, about the size of a cherry, and so abundant that one tree will produce sufficient to plant a large district.

IN BEDLAM.

A Patient Was Perfectly Sane Except on the Subject of Breakfast.

When Edmund Burke was preparing the indictment against Warren Hastings, he was told that a person who had long resided in India, but was now an inmate of Bedlam, could probably give him some useful information. He went to Bedlam, accordingly, and the maniac gave him, in a long, rational, and well-conducted conversation, the results of long and various experience of Indian affairs. On leaving the cell, Burke told the keeper in attendance that the poor man was as much in his senses as he. The keeper answered: "Sir, please step back to the poor gentleman's cell and ask him what he had for breakfast." Burke could not refuse. "Pray, sir," said he, "tell me what you had for breakfast." The man at once put on the wild stare of a maniac, and shouted, "Hobnails, sir! It is shameful to think how they treat us. They give us nothing but hobnails!" and proceeded with a "descant wild" about the horrors of the cookery of Bethlehem hospital. At the first pause Burke was glad to escape.

About Swans.

A curious, secretive proceeding of swans is described. The cygnets having been just hatched out, the male bird picked up an empty half egg-shell lying beside the water and carefully carried it to the edge of the water some twenty feet from the nest, filled it with mud, and pushed it into the river, where it sank to the bottom; and then repeated the performance with the other half egg-shell. On returning to the nest the last time, he placed a few sticks across the small track he had made. As no other pieces were seen about the nest, while five cygnets were hatched, it is inferred that the bird had done the same with all the egg-shells.

A Thousand-Dollar Teacup.

Bristol china, at any rate when it has high political connections, seems to be a remarkably valuable commodity. The other day the teacup and saucer of the "Burke service" was sold in England for £60. But even higher prices have been obtained before. In the Callender sale, 1876, a chocolate cup and saucer of the same service brought £91; and for the teacup of the same, Mr. F. Rathbone gave, at the same sale, no less than £215 5s.

The Building of Castle William.

"Who built Castle William?" asked a passenger on a steamer in New York bay. No one could answer, but the statement was volunteered that the architect killed himself in disgust on learning that he had violated a rule of fort-building by planning the port holes one above another in a straight line. To the casual glance the old circular fortress on Governor's island appears to be built of brick, but the material used is brownstone.

MAN'S EAR.

Remarkable Delicacy and Sensitiveness of the Organs of Hearing.

In the big lumber mill at Austin, Pa., there is an engine of remarkable beauty and power. It is a 350 horse power engine, which drives the complicated machinery of the sawmill. Standing beside the immense flywheel of this engine the other night it struck me that the everlasting clatter and roar of wheels, belts and pistons must be awfully trying to the nerves of the engineer, who had to be always in that room. I asked him if it were not so, and he replied at once: "Not at all; on the contrary I feel the stillness of the night outside more than what seems to you to be the confused uproar in this room. Every sound that goes to swell the total has its peculiar meaning to me, and sitting here I can distinguish by the sound the slightest deviation of any part of the engine from its proper course. If, as I sometimes do, I drop into a doze, not the smallest thing could happen to that engine, not the most insignificant part of its complicated mechanism could get out of gear, but the change of sound would waken me instantly."

What Stronger Proof

Is needed of the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla than the hundreds of letters continually coming in telling of marvelous cures it has effected after all other remedies had failed? Truly. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses peculiar curative power unknown to other medicines.

Hood's Pills cure constipation by restoring the peristaltic action of the alimentary canal. They are the best family cathartic.

A Traveling Man's Experience With Diarrhoea.

I am a traveling man and have been afflicted with what is called chronic diarrhœa for some ten years. Last fall I was in western Pennsylvania, and accidentally was introduced to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. I ventured to make a trial and was wonderfully relieved. I would like now to introduce it among my friends. H. M. LEWIS, 24 Freeman street, Cleveland, Ohio. For sale by druggists.

A Cure for Cholera.

There is no use of any one suffering with the cholera when Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy can be procured. It will give relief in a few minutes and cure in a short time I have tried it and know.—W. H. Clinton, Helmetta, N. J. The epidemic at Helmetta was at first believed to be cholera, but subsequent investigation proved it to be a violent form of dysentery, almost as dangerous as cholera. This Remedy was used there with great success. For sale by druggists.

Mr. Robert W. Dewvir

An Exempt Fireman of Jackson Engine Co., Long Island City, N. Y., says that at Christmas, 1890, he could only take a smell of dinner, as he was in a fearful condition from Dyspepsia. The next summer he went to Europe for his health, but came home uncured. In the fall he decided upon a thorough trial of

Hood's Sarsaparilla

And by Christmas had a hearty appetite, healthy digestion, and was perfectly well. His cure was due wholly to Hood's Sarsaparilla.

RAILWAY RUMBLINGS.

Accidents, Incidents and Personal Mention of the People About the Railway Centers.

No. 86, an eastern division freight engine, is in the Fort Wayne shops for repairs.

Engine No. 53 left the Pittsburg shops this morning after being thoroughly repaired.

C. Weldmann resumed his work in the Pittsburg boiler shop this morning, after a few days' absence.

Frank Forbing, of the Pittsburg car shop, leaves tomorrow for Chicago to spend a week with relatives.

H. F. Rohlman, a painter in the Pittsburg shops, is confined to his home on East DeWald street by illness.

Herman Schmidt, of Columbus, Ohio, who came here to attend the funeral of his brother's child, left for his home today.

Daniel Welker returned to his work in the factory of Rhinesmith & Simonson this morning, after an illness of a few days.

Chief Engineer Thomas Rodd, of the Pennsylvania, passed through the city on the limited last evening, bound for Pittsburg.

A new furnace was set in operation in the Bass blacksmith shop Monday. Work in this department is so plentiful that the addition was necessary.

In the amount of the east bound freight of last week, out of Chicago, the Erie hauled 7,666 tons, being exceeded only by the Michigan Central and Lake Shore roads.

Valentine Hartman, a member of the Wallace street fire department, has changed his residence from Clay street to No. 118 Wallace street, adjoining the engine house.

Charles Rosenberger and family will leave next Monday for Crestline, Ohio, for a week's stay with relatives. Mr. Rosenberger is a painter and is employed in the Pittsburg shops.

C. Norwald, of the Pittsburg planing mills, who was off duty yesterday on account of the serious illness of his wife, reports the lady's condition much improved. Mr. Norwald resumed work this morning.

William Limecooly's horse broke out of the barn last evening and feasted on the corn in a neighbor's yard. The animal was badly foundered, and may not recover. Mr. Limecooly is employed in the Bass blacksmith shop.

Master Car Builder James A. Graham is expected home next Saturday. He is out on a tour of education and inspection with a number of other master car builders. The party visited every shop in the Pennsylvania system.

A number of the employes in the Pittsburg boiler shop laid off this afternoon to attend the wedding of Fred Kraft, jr., a moulder in the Bass shop. The young man is a son of Fred Kraft, of the Pittsburg shops, and at one time worked in the boiler department of the works.

A number of Bass foundrymen who attended the infare following the wedding of Charles Gable and Miss Druhot, failed to report for duty this morning. The reception given the bride and groom was a brilliant one and was enjoyed by a great many of the happy couple's friends.

Capt. H. M. Diehl has been chosen to arrange the parade of the Pittsburg machine shop men in the Columbus day exercises. It is proposed to have a wagon appropriately trimmed up and sufficiently large to carry a number of the old employes whose age will not permit them to walk. The machinists hope to have the other departments of the works represented in a similar manner.

John Kretsinger and Charley Turner have returned from Coesse, where they spent yesterday in the woods. The game bagged by these Nimrods consisted of three squirrels and seven rabbits, though there is some dispute about the latter. Some pronounce them chipmunks, but we guess they are rabbits, but very young. Charley laid off today to prepare the game for distribution among his friends.

A WONDERFUL MIRAGE

The City Which Indians Say Was Built in the Clouds.

Many stories have been written about mirages and delusions, but none have been more interesting and curious than that of the Silent City mirage, which makes its appearance near the Pacific glacier in Alaska.

The discovery of this wonderful mirage was made by the Indians, who would tell of the city which was built in the clouds. The mirage can be seen in the early part of July, from 5 to 6 p. m. It rises from the side of the Pacific glacier. It first appears like a heavy mist, and soon becomes clearer, and one can distinctly see the specter city, well defined streets and trees, large spires, huge and odd-shaped buildings, which appear to be ancient mosques or cathedrals. It is a city which would seem to contain at least 25,000 or 30,000 inhabitants. As yet no one has been able to identify it, although several have claimed to recognize the place. There is no city like it in Alaska, nor in any country about it for thousands of miles. Some claim it is a city in Russia, others say it is a city in England, but none can tell what or where it is. The mirage was given the name of "Silent City," as it appears to one like a dead city; there is nothing that would indicate it is inhabited.

"Salvation Oil cured me of a shoulder lameness and pain in back, contracted playing ball last season. I tried several other remedies and all failed. Chas Mears, 122 Water street, Cleveland, Ohio."

It is a plain fact that twenty per cent. of the deaths in our larger cities are caused by consumption; and when we reflect that this terrible disease can be forestalled by Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, shall we condemn the sufferers for their negligence, or pity them for their ignorance?

An ice-yacht has been known to travel a mile in one minute and ten seconds.

A Cholera Scare.

A reported outbreak of cholera at Helmetta, N. J., created much excitement in that vicinity. Investigation showed that the disease was not cholera, but a violent dysentery, which is almost as severe and dangerous as cholera. Mr. Walter Willard, a prominent merchant of Jamesburg, two miles from Helmetta, says Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy has given great satisfaction in the most severe cases of dysentery. It is certainly one of the best things ever made." For sale by druggists.

In ordinary English writing "z" only occurs twenty-two times while "e" occurs 1,000.

KRUSE'S HEADACHE CAPSULS—WARRANTED.

OMAHA, Neb., May 5, 1891.

I have tried a great many remedies for headache, and KRUSE'S HEADACHE CAPSULS knock it quicker than anything I ever tried. D. W. McVEA.

For sale by Gross & Pellen.

From Kalamazoo.

NORMAN LICHTY, Des Moines, Iowa:

Dear Sir—A box of HEADACHE CAPSULS were handed to me and I have used them with perfect success. They cannot be recommended too highly. Could not possibly do without them to sufferers with this common, though terrible, complaint.

LOCAL LINES

That Have Fallen in Pleasant Places—Our Own Neighbors and Friends Tell of Remarkable Cures.

Catarrh is a weakness of the mucus membranes.

It is caused by repeated and neglected colds or by some means which lowers the vitality of the parts.

It can only be cured by the system of treatment that the Stackhouse Medical Institute has perfected and adopted.

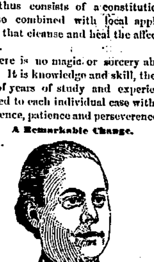
One part of this system cleanses and heals with irritating.

The other part builds up the system, gives tone and strength to the diseased membranes and prevents a relapse.

It thus consists of a constitutional course combined with local applications that cleanse and heal the affected parts.

There is no magic or sorcery about this. It is knowledge and skill, the result of years of study and experience applied to each individual case with intelligence, patience and perseverence.

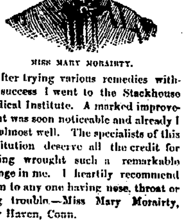
A Remarkable Change.



MISS MARY MORAIRTY.

After trying various remedies without success I went to the Stackhouse Medical Institute. A marked improvement was soon noticeable and already I am almost well. The specialists of this institution deserve all the credit for having wrought such a remarkable change in me. I heartily recommend them to any one having nose, throat or lung trouble.—Miss Mary Morairty, New Haven, Conn.

Thoroughly Satisfied.



MR. THOMAS GORMLEY.

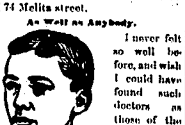
I was suffering from all the symptoms of catarrh when I began treatment at the Stackhouse Medical institute, but since taking treatment they have almost entirely disapeared. I am thoroughly satisfied with the progress made in my case and have full confidence in the doctors.—Thomas Gormley, 74 Melita street.

As Well as Anybody.

PETER E. POOLEY.

I never felt so well before, and wish I could have found such doctors as those of the Stackhouse Medical Institute years ago. I am still taking treatment and in a little while I will be as well as anybody — Peter E. Pooley, 39 Wabash avenue.

Improved Rapidly.



MR. C. KOCHLINGER.

I improved rapidly from the start. I feel better now than at any time for the past three years. I advise every one similarly afflicted to go at once to the specialists of the Stackhouse Medical Institute.—Mr. C. Kochlinger, Soest P. O., Allen County.

DR. STACKHOUSE

Is a graduate of the medical college of Indiana and late house physician of Indianapolis City hospital, a student of the New York Polyclinic and other New York institutions devoted to the higher branches of medicine. His diploma bears the written endorsement of Jefferson Medical College, of Philadelphia. Dr. Stackhouse is licensed to practice medicine in twelve states and all the great cities of the union.

DR. G. H. FIELD

Was for eight years acting Assistant Surgeon in the United States army. Dr. Field received his medical education at King's College and Hospital, London, England, and since coming to America in 1875 graduated at the State Medical College, Mobile, Alabama. As a specialist of experience and ability Dr. Field ranks with the best.

Of Special Interest.

Patients are supplied with all necessary medicines free of cost.

For those taking treatment, consultation and examination is free.

No cases taken which, in the opinion of the staff, can not be benefitted.

Cases that have failed to receive benefit from the treatment of others are especially solicited.

All curable cases of lingering, continued or doubtful character treated with unfailing success.

Knighted the Beef.

The famous story of the word "sirloin," or, more properly, "surloin," is of recent creation. A king of England —the "merry monarch" most likely— coming in hungry one day from the chase, had served up to him a savory loin of beef. So delighted was the famished king at the sight of his favorite dish that he knighted it on the spot, and is it not known as "sir loin" even to this day?

A Village of Chess Players.

There is a village in Austria called Sterbeck of which all the inhabitants are chess players. The game is regularly taught in the schools, and every year there is a public examination in the game and a distribution of prizes in the shape of chess boards.

SALVATION OIL

Has made many friends. Why? Because it is the best and cheapest liniment sold. It kills pain!

Sheriff's Sale.

Execution No. 12,674.

In the Allen circuit court. State of Indiana.

By virtue of an order of sale to me directed and delivered by the clerk of said court, in the above entitled cause, I have levied upon and will expose for sale by public auction, at the court house door in said county, between the hours of 1 and 4 o'clock p. m., of the 28th day of October, 1892, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following described premises, viz:

Lot number ten (10) and fifteen (15) feet off from the west side of lot numbered nine (9), of B. D. Miner's subdivision to the city of Fort Wayne, Allen county, Indiana.

And on failure to realize therefrom the full amount of the judgment, interest thereon and costs, I will at the same time and in the manner aforesaid, offer for sale the fee simple of the above described premises. Taken as the property of the defendant to satisfy said order of sale.

GEORGE H. VIBERG,
Sheriff Allen County.

Mrs. S. A. Northrop, Messrs. Mason Long and S. F. Bowser went to Logansport this morning to attend the state convention of the Baptist church.

Mrs. J. T. Ferguson, who has been visiting relatives for the last week in Delphos, Ohio, returned home yesterday, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. N. J. Hume.

Miss Maude McCracken, society editress of THE SENTINEL, while on her rounds for news this morning, found a roll of paper money, amounting to $25. The owner will find the same in the counting room at THE SENTINEL office.

Last Monday evening the democratic boys turned out in parade and gave a nice street demonstration. An actual count showed 183 boys under fifteen years of age in line. They marched in the middle of the streets and cheered lustily for the next president of the United States, Grover Cleveland.

Committees from the people's party ward clubs met at Carpenters' hall last evening. Permanent committees were appointed to make final arrangements for Saturday's demonstration. Two meetings are expected to be held at the Princess rink, one at 2 and one at 8 p. m. A torch-light parade will be held in the evening, forming at Clinton and Wayne streets. H. E. Hansen was selected for grand marshal.

Patrick McCarthy, one of the well known and prominent residents of Huntington, Ind., was in the city yesterday and spent a few hours as the guest of Ed L. McCauley. He has a great love for the Emerald Isle and will visit that country next season, possibly paying Mr. McCauley's fare and expenses to chaperon him on the trip. Mr. McCarthy is at present suffering with a felon on his finger.

Maumee lodge, No. 50, A. O. U. W., will hold a regular meeting this evening at their hall on Court street. At promptly 7:30 tomorrow evening Summit City lodge, No. 36, will hold a regular meeting at their hall, 138 Calhoun street. There will be work in both degrees, after which Dr. H. C. Havice, one of Fort Wayne's leading physicians, will favor the lodge with a short address.

The annual business meeting of the Congregational church was held last evening and the reports of the different officers were read, showing the past year to have been a prosperous one, especially in point of good work accomplished. The new building is progressing rapidly and the members of the church hope soon to be in their own edifice. During the next year Professor Miles will have charge of the music.

Seymour friends bitterly criticise the alleged inhumanity of the Edinburg officials at the time Jesse Price met with the accident which resulted in his death. Price fell under a train and his leg was badly crushed. It is alleged that he was left lying in the depot at Edinburg for three hours without surgical attention, and that he really bled to death. It is also charged that Price begged for the attendance of a physician, but that none were summoned.

Sunday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schlaudroff, in the country, occurred the marriage of their daughter, Miss Minnie Schlaudroff, to Mr. John Miller, a prominent young farmer of Adams county. There were over one hundred guests present. A sumptuous dinner was served, and the occasion was a most delightful one. The bride, who is a sister of Constable Louis Schlaudroff of this city, is an estimable young lady. The young couple received many presents.

The O. B. C. Literary society was organized last evening by electing the following officers: President, Henry Koepf; vice president, Miss Bartholomew; secretary, William Berbeck; treasurer, Frederick Schmuckle; committee, Misses Grace Kilpatrick, Minnie Smith, Carrie Cramer, Madge Williams, Cora Bassett, Messrs. Neusbaum, Charles Alexander, E. A. Evans, William Niebergall, Bert Emheiser and Charles Dalrymple. Messrs. Fred Schmuckle and Charles Alexander and Miss Minnie Ahern and Grace Kilpatrick will edit the Breeze.

J. Whitaker, of New Haven, is in the city.

Dr. Stemen and family have returned home from Cleveland.

Mr. Stace, of the firm of Stace & Co., left yesterday for Detroit to attend the wedding of his nephew.

The seven-year-old child of Isaac B. Havens, of No. 73 Maumee avenue, died at 2 o'clock this afternoon of diphtheria.

This evening at 7:30 a Jewish holiday will be observed at the Hebrew Temple. It is called the Feast of the Tabernacles.

Last evening an electric car, north bound on Calhoun street, smashed into the south gate at the Wabash and Pennsylvania railroad crossing. The gate was badly damaged but has been repaired.

A child was born to the wife of John Fox last night. Mrs. Fox was formerly Miss Kate Nolan and has been spending the summer with her parents in Fort Wayne. Her husband arrived in New York this morning en route home from Mexico.

One of the pleasant events of today was the exquisite dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. A. Mergentheim, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. B. Mergentheim and daughter, Miss Ella, of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Goodwin, who leave next Monday to reside in Chicago, much to the regret of their many friends in this city.

The Hanlon Brothers' new version of "Superba" has been the cause of much excitement in St. Louis during the past week, where it has been playing to a succession of packed houses. At one of the performances a man dislocated his jaw laughing at one of the ludicrous new tricks and a surgeon had to be summoned to place it back into position. We trust that no such disaster will befall any of our citizens during the Hanlons' forthcoming engagement in this city.

Last evening Summit City lodge, Degree of Honor, No. 2, held a regular meeting and nearly every chair was occupied. Aside from the regular order of business Mrs. William Beman favored the lodge with two well chosen vocal selections, which were received with great applause. George R. Hench then addressed the lodge and held them attentive listeners for about ten minutes. The arrangement committee reported everything favorable to make their social and entertainment to be given on next Tuesday evening for the benefit of No. 36 a grand success in every particular.

GOVERNOR NORTHERN.

The Democrats Elect Him by Over 40,000 Majority.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 5.—Democrats say there is every reason to believe that Governor Northern will be reelected by a majority of from 40,000 upwards. In some sections of the state the people's party is strong—in others it has no organization. The campaign on the part of the third party managers has been very badly handled. For a while those to whom the management was intrusted were over-confident, and they let their opportunities of raising anything for the party slip by. They have lost ground steadily since their nominating convention in places and none of them hope to do anything.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 5.—Geo. W. Wilson, chairman of the democratic committee, reports that his advices give Mitchell a majority of 20,000 over Barker (people's party). In 1888 Fleming's majority was 40,000, and in 1890 the democratic majority was 26,000. The election will prove a great disappointment to the third party leaders in this section, as they had anticipated a large vote from republicans, white and colored.

HON. S. M. FOSTER.

He Accepts an Invitation to Address the Democratic Clubs.

The following communications are self explanatory and will be gratifying to the friends of Mr. Foster:

Hon. S. M. Foster:

DEAR SIR:—We hereby extend to you an invitation to address the democratic clubs of the city upon the political issues of this campaign at sometime to suit your convenience in Randall hall. We know you to champion the cause of tariff reform and hope you may see your way clear to accept this invitation. An early reply is desired.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. BARRETT,
President of Jeffersonian club.
W. H. SHAMBAUGH,
President of Hendricks club.

GENTLEMEN:—Yours of the 4th inst., inviting me to address the democratic clubs of this city has been received. I take pleasure in accepting your kind invitation, and will include in my address a reply to some of the arguments advanced by Judge Taylor in his recent speech in this city.

In order that this meeting may not conflict with those that may be arranged for other speakers, I suggest that the naming of a date be referred to our county central committee.

Very truly yours,
SAMUEL M. FOSTER.
To HON. JAMES M. BARRETT,
Pres. Jeffersonian Club.
HON. W. H. SHAMBAUGH,
Pres. Hendricks Club.

THE story goes that Sir Charles Smith, as British Ambassador to Morocco, overawed the Sultan by some tricks of prestidigitation, and his wife took the starch out of a hostile mob by photographing them with a kodak. No wonder the Englishman had it much his own way as long as the spell, more potent than British muskets, could be kept up.

WE cannot have everything in this world. If we have health, talent and riches, we must have the peculiar temptations which accompany them. God always knows what is best for us; we what is best for ourselves—seldom.

A charming little dinner was given by Miss Mamie Evans last evening at her home, on West Wayne street. The table was artistically decorated with white and green and covers were laid for six.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kepner, of Arcanum, Ohio, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Trythall, of 43 East Butler street. The visitors are here to attend the Deidrick-Smith wedding this evening.

A select little dinner party was given today at the Randall in honor of Mr. Richard Spencer, who is the guest of his brother, Mr. M. V. B. Spencer. Mr. R. Spencer leaves tomorrow for his home in Burlington, Iowa.

This afternoon Mr. H. T. Stapleford presented his little daughters with a fine Shetland pony. The little girls showed their appreciation of the gift by immediately making the pony carry double and trot around the block.

The opening reception of the Osborne dancing school, at the Armory, last evening was attended by a large number of our young society people. Miss Emily Hood furnished the music for the occasion and many a merry dance was enjoyed.

The friends of Miss Amelia Conrad surprised that young lady last evening by calling in a body at the home of her parents, on John street. The guests were royally entertained and say the occasion was one of the most pleasant affairs of its kind they ever participated in.

Miss Julia Wilson entertained a number of friends at cards last evening in honor of Miss Mary Adams, of Yellow Springs, Ohio, who is the guest of Mrs. J. A. Armstrong. Those present were Misses Anna Siboni, Thyra Shoiler, Lezbeth Shoiler, Lillian Pyke, Mr. and Mrs. VanSlyke and Dr. Miller.

The marriage of Miss Jessie Smith and Mr. Walter Deidrick will take place at the home of the bride's parents at 7:30 this evening. Numerous invitations are out and the wedding will be one of the society events of the season. The groom is a prominent resident of Logansport, while the bride is the daughter of Engineer and Mrs. Hank Smith.

A merry party of young people visited the home of Miss Maud Keplinger last evening, greatly to that young lady's surprise. Nevertheless, she gave them a cordial welcome, and after cards and other games had been played provided them with a delicious luncheon. It was not until a late hour that the guests departed. Among those present were Misses Lottie Blakesly, Maud Geake, Grace Gouty, Ida Brodt, Fannie Conover, Messrs. W. C. White, of Washington, D. C.; G. Gouty, J. Snooks, Charles Reese, Charles Muhler and others.

Last Monday was the thirty-seventh anniversary of the birth of Mr. William Berning, the popular machinist in the Pittsburg shops. To make the event memorable Mrs. Berning quietly arranged a party for that evening, neglecting to notify her husband of the fact. As the head of the family sat quietly reading THE SENTINEL at 8 o'clock his wife opened the front door and instantly Mr. Berning was surrounded by a host of friends. He was greatly surprised but soon recovered and in his hospitable way made every body feel perfectly at ease. Cards and games were indulged in until 10 o'clock, when a luncheon was served. Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames C. L. Daseler, C. C. Daseler and J. B. Armack, Misses Dora, Louise and Sophia Daseler, Louise Beckman, Lena Salge, Lulu and Minnie Schoppman, Clara Daseler, Messrs. Ed Beckman, Louis Kestel, William Weigmann, Charles, Fred and George Daseler.

This evening at the home of Mrs. Louise M. Humphrey will occur the marriage of her daughter, Clara B. F., to Mr. Charles Guild. The guests from abroad will be Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Capen and Mr. and Mrs. G. Percy, of Chicago, and Mrs. N. H. Goodwin, of Dallas, Texas.

Miss Bertha Wiler, who has been the guest of Mrs. A. Oppenheimer for the past eighteen months, left this afternoon for her home in Logansport. Mrs. Theodore Frank, Misses Clara Stettner, of Toledo; Rose Nathan and Mrs. Louis Frankel accompanied her to Huntington, where they will be entertained this afternoon by Miss Daisy Levy, and return this evening.

Last evening at her home on West Jefferson street, Miss Rosa Roelle gave a Japanese party in honor of Mr. John Wile, of Cincinnati. The chief features of the evening were dancing, music and games and at 11 o'clock refreshments were served. Those present were the Misses Rosa Roelle, Tillie Eggemann, Lillie and Daisy Walter, Josie Cope, Lillie and Kate Heit, Laura Schuckman, and Messrs. John Wile George Slater, John Eggemann, Charley Rundle, John Finger, Barney Weismantle and Messrs. Dregemeyer and Tyler.

A pleasant event was the serenade and surprise party tendered Miss Nellie Fox, at the residence of her parents on Brackenridge street, last evening. Dancing and card-playing were indulged in until near midnight, after which refreshments were served. One of the leading features of the evening was the music furnished by the Blue Tassels Serenading club, which was excellent. The guests were Misses Maggie and Tracie Small, Mamie Neidhofer, Lillian Mathis, Lizzie Weigand, Trudie Franke, Francis Weigand and Messrs. W. Weigand, H. Reinhardt, P. Zurbach, Ed ~~Senningen, Charles Lapp and others.~~

The thirty-ninth birthday of Mrs. Mollie Bush, of South Calhoun street, was made the occasion for a surprise party at the lady's residence last evening. The uninvited guests met at a neighboring residence, and when all those expected had arrived the party, headed by an orchestra, marched to Mrs. Bush's residence and treated that lady to a delightful serenade. At the close of the first selection the fair victim of the surprise appeared at the door and invited the party to enter. Then followed a very pleasant evening Mrs. Bush was the recipient of many handsome presents, some of which were quite costly. There were present about ten couples.

The "experience" social given by the members of the Christian Endeavor society of the First Presbyterian church last evening was a decided success. The members had each pledged themselves to earn a dollar and were to tell their experience at the social. Several young ladies sold popcorn; some made candy; others made and sold bread; while one young lady earned part of her dollar by catching and carrying a runaway chicken. The young gentlemen earned the dollars in various ways, such as hauling sawdust, selling pears, blacking boots, etc. The proceeds of the entertainment will help to defray the expenses of the state convention of Christian Endeavorers, which meets in this city from the 25th to the 27th of November.
